JULY 26, 1989 "the little paper" VOLUME 3 NUMBER 2

McAnally Challenged by Jones, Champagne

The Race Is On!

ROMULUS—The July 25 deadline date for filing petitions has passed, and the list of candidates running for election this fall is now complete.

First of all, there will be no competition for the offices of Treasurer and City Clerk. City Clerk Linda Choate and Treasurer James Napiorkowski will be running un-opposed.

Running for mayor against incumbent Beverly McAnally will be Earl Champagne and Zenobia Jones. Because there are three candidates in the mayoral race, a primary election will be held on September 12 to narrow the field down to two. McAnally, who left early Tuesday morning for her vacation, learned about the need for a primary from her Secretary, Betsey Brown, who made a long-distance telephone call to tell her.

In the race for City Council, all of the incumbents except for Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks will seek reelection. They are Noah "Pete" Bergeron, Fred "Junior" Block, Randolph Gear, Ellis T. Pennington, Jimmie Raspberry, and William Wadsworth. Competing with them for the seven available seats will be Dave Atkins, George Carpenter, Brooker Edwards, Elvira Fisher, Russell Lambert, and John Lewkowicz. The one among the seven finishers who gets the most votes will fill the position of Mayor Pro Tem.

If all the new people running for Council were to win, only one incumbent would be left in office. The chances of that happening are pretty slim, but, on the other hand, nothing is impossible.

According to Linda Choate, two of those who pulled petitions filed at the last minute — Earl Champagne filed five minutes before Tuesday's 4 p.m. deadline, and John Lewkowicz filed with only two minutes to spare. One man who pulled petitions, Brian Oakley, did not attempt to file before the cutoff date.

All candidates now have a threeday "cooling off" period to consider their decision. Anyone who changes his or her mind before 4 p.m. on Friday, July 28, can withdraw from the race, and his or her name will not appear on the ballot.

The race for Council should prove to be an interesting one, "Tootie" Fisher worked for the Water Department until her retirement a couple of months ago; Brooker Edwards is an ex-Councilman; John Lewkowicz, also an ex-Councilman, was defeated in his bid for reelection to the Treasurer's Office two years ago; Russell Lambert is from a family of involved politicians dating back to our township days; George Carpenter is a well-known figure on the northwest side of Town; and Dave Atkins, Editor of The Romulus News, has been active in politics from a publisher's standpoint.

Of the two candidates opposing McAnally in the mayoral race, "Zee" Jones is a teacher and the former coowner (with her husband) of a party store on Goddard Road in Romulus, and Earl Champagne is an ex-City employee.

McAnally, who was recently re-appointed Chairperson of the Community and Economic Development Advisory Council, has run un-opposed in the last two elections, and says she'll be glad to get back on the campaign trail.

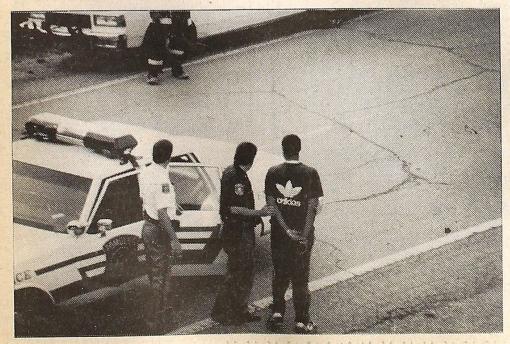

"This will give me an opportunity to do what I like doing best: meeting old friends and making new friends." —Mayor Beverly McAnally

Officer Hurt in Accident

by Dave Atkins

Last Monday evening, a Metro Parks officer was hurt in a "chase" here in Romulus. Three men were arrested by the Romulus Police Department and turned over to the Department of the Wayne County Sheriff for possible warrants and prosecution.

According to Detective Lindberg of the Sheriff's Department, three black males were the center of a disturbance (the cause of which is uncertain) at the Lower Huron Metro Park just outside of Town. When the men were pointed out to the Parks officer, they jumped in a car and attempted to leave the park. The Parks officer ran a radio check on the plates of the car and found that the car and plates were stolen. He attempted to stop the car with the standard method of flashing lights and siren, but the men refused to pull over. Lindberg said that the resulting chase took place at speeds averaging from 35 to 45 miles per hour, and reached about 60 miles per hour at one point.

The men were on Huron River Drive in Romulus when another Parks police car approached them from the opposite direction. One of the Parks police cars was hit, and the Blazer the men were driving rolled over. (The Romulus Fire Department was called out to make sure that no fires erupted from the overturned Blazer, and the fire fighters did their usual fine job of handling their responsibilities.)

One of the men was arrested at the scene by the Romulus Police, while the other two made an attempt to escape on foot. Calls went out for tracking dogs, and patrol cars (including the car of Police Chief Dansby) were searching the I-275 area just over Huron River Drive near Daly's. The roads were blocked from Five Points south on Huron River Drive, and the Romulus Police captured and arrested one of the other suspects.

That still left one suspect on foot and free.

A resident on Delano called the police about a suspicious man on the street, and the police quickly responded to the call and arrested him. It was learned almost immediately that the man picked up on Delano was the third

Rumors Make Me Sick

by Dave Atkins

It seems that people never learn when to keep their mouth shut, especially when they don't know what they're talking about.

realize that this is an election year, but that is no excuse for someone in office spreading rumors about something of which he has no knowledge.

I have written about this subject numerous times, to the point where it is beginning to make me a little sick to my stomach. I said I would not run for office through this paper, except to purchase advertising which I have to pay for just like anyone else, and that is still my intention. Some people will not let well enough alone, and they should.

Once again, it has been brought to my attention that, allegedly, Mayor Beverly McAnally has money invested in this paper. That is an out-and-out, bold-faced lie!

Let me tell everyone, one more time, who has money invested in this paper. NO ONE! That means not one living soul has one red cent invested in this newspaper.

I also have been told that I supposedly purchased my printing equipment from the Mayor after her husband passed away. Even if this was true, it would be none of anyone's business, but, just to set the record straight, my printing equipment was purchased from Johnston Lithographic in Romulus, Crescent Printing in Taylor, and Litho Photo in Dearborn.

Now, if anyone would like to make a political issue out of something that I actually have done, he or she can feel free to come and talk to me; I'll tell that person everything I can remember about my life, and he or she can choose which of my real mistakes in life (I've made some, just like everyone else) to talk about.

The fact is that my wife and I, alone, own this paper. The fact is that there are only three of us who put this paper together - my wife, myself, and my daughter. I also pay one person to do some of my running for me, but that pay sure isn't much. There are people, including my mother-in-law, who write for our paper or contribute information to it, but they are not paid for their efforts. Most of the people who help us do so because they realize that we need all of the assistance we can get, and they enjoy contributing to the information made available to their fellow community members through our paper. Their efforts simply cannot be appreciated enough by the few of us here. These people who help us are truly interested in what goes on in this city, or they wouldn't bother.

I hope that the readers of this paper are concerned citizens, or else all of our efforts are in vain.

I also hope that anyone running for office in this city is concerned enough about what goes on to want to do something positive, and wasting time gossiping about a subject you know nothing about, or trying to win an election by spreading false rumors about other candidates, can hardly be considered constructive behavior.

We need many things in Romulus: a parking lot Downtown, more singledwelling homes, new businesses, recreation facilities for kids to keep them off the streets and out of trouble, an expanded police department, an expanded and better-equipped Department of Public Works, a Downtown Development Authority that isn't afraid to make decisions (even if they are unpopular at the time), and, most of all, we need City Council members who are not afraid of their own shadow, and who run for office for more reasons than the prestige associated with the job. One thing we don't need in our town is false rumors. Hopefully, in the future, everyone will make an effort to stick to the facts, and then be willing to take appropriate action based on those facts.

Foster Home Hits Snag with State

by Dave Atkins

A recent open house at the foster care home located at 10005 Miriam in Romulus was attended by Mayor Beverly McAnally, some City Council members, and several local residents. The home, which is operated by Cecilia Logan, has been the center of some controversy lately because of the number of people living there.

At present, there are 11 people residing in the home, which is a violation of the permit issued by the City of Romulus in November of 1988, designating a maximum of six occupants. Logan had applied for a permit for a 12-bed facility, but the Planning Commission denied her request. In effect, so did the City Council, since it did not act within 30 days to reverse the decision, making the denial final. (Article XXVII: Procedures and standards for uses subject to special approvals. Section 27.01: Reviewing bodies.)

Apparently, however, the State was unaware of the City's denial, because Michigan's Department of Social Services issued Logan a license authorizing a 12-person facility. It was only when City Clerk Linda Choate wrote to that department on June 2, 1989, that it became aware of the conflict in permits. Since Section 16(2) of the Adult Foster Care Facility Licensing Act provides that "A temporary license shall not be granted under this Act if the proposed foster care facility for more than six adults has not obtained zoning approval or obtained a special or conditional use permit if required by an ordinance of the city, village, or township in which the proposed facility is located," the Department of Social Services found Cecilia Logan in violation of that rule, and notified her that her license would be revoked if she did not obtain proper approval from the City to operate a 12-bed facility.

Letter to the Editor

I am a resident of the City of Romulus, and have been for nearly 20 years. I came here from the State of North Carolina with my parents 40 years ago, and lived in Detroit up until the last 20 years. I'm just a plain old County Girl, and when I got my first chance to visit the City of Romulus, it made me feel like living in the Country, so my husband, three children, and I decided this was the place for us.

We got interested in our city and met a wonderful person by the name of Ellis Pennington, who now serves on the City Council. I voted for Mr. Pennington because he tells you like it is, may it be right or wrong. Whenever you have a gripe about your city, all you have to do is call on him, and I promise you he will see it's taken care of. He is one of the most truthful persons I've ever known on the Council. He doesn't go into hiding from people - he's there when you need him. His phone number isn't hard to get, and you can really talk to him just like a brother or a father. You see him always riding around our city and looking for things to make improvements on. To me, he's just a wonderful and great man.

It's not too long now before election time is due, and we've had a very wonderful person as President of City Council, and it will really be hard to fill her shoes. Sometimes in life, however, we must step down. She was really great at her job, and we'll miss her. But I, for one, would love to see a good, hard worker in there, and I believe Ellis Pennington could or would give it all he's got. Mr. Pennington is a good man for the people, especially the little people.

Don't forget to vote.

Sincerely, S. Flowers □

X-rays

This is the sixteenth and final segment of a series of articles on Chiropractic medicine, reprinted from Pain, Headaches, & Stress by Chester A. Wilk, D.C., P.C. The information was submitted by Dan Elwart, D.C.

Chiropractors use x-rays much the same as a contractor uses blueprints or other structural drawings. X-rays are important to chiropractors because of the structural nature of many of their treatments, since getting an "inside view" of patients allows them to be more precise with those treatments. In addition, they may look for pathological changes, fractures, and any structural deviation that may suggest levels of subluxations.

A subluxation is determined through a combination of different findings, such as palpation, localization of pain and muscle spasm, localization of shooting pain, tingling or numbness, the history presented by the patient, and restricted motion. The purpose of a chiropractic x-ray is not to identify a subluxation as such, but the area where it is likely to be. (Expert testimony of Dr. Scott Haldeman, D.C., M.D., Ph.D., New Zealand Commission of Inquiry into Chiropractic, 1979.)

Chiropractors generally are judicious about the utilization of x-rays by using minimum views consistent with being thorough. This keeps exposure levels to the body at a minimum, and represents an invaluable tool in the overall evaluation of a patient's ailment.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SENIOR CLASS

Special thanks are due to State Representative James Kosteva and Barbara Schultz for contributing information to this issue's "Senior Class" news.

Advice on Helping a Friend in Mourning

Recently, I read an article by Nina Herrmann Donnelly which gave some sound advice on a sensitive subject. I'm reprinting it here in my column in order to share it with you.

It's amazing how productive we can be while postponing doing something we don't want to do. I've cleaned dresser drawers, baked cookies, run errands, called my parents, and even washed floors, all to put off calling friends who were mourning a tragic loss.

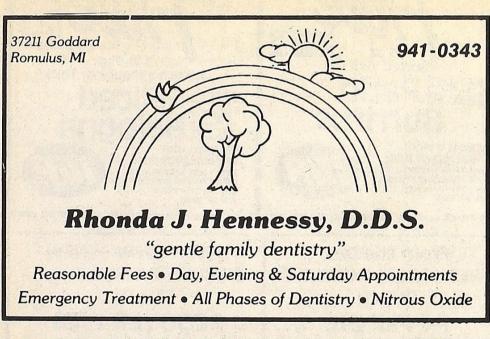

I've discovered, over the years, that I'm far from alone in this behavior. It's very difficult for many people to work up the courage to call or visit a friend who's mourning the death of a loved one.

"Will it be a bad time?" "Will I say the wrong thing?" These are valid questions asked by countless people who want to help, but who are haunted by the age-old complaint, "I never know what to say."

Communication can be maintained in a number of ways: in person, by telephone, by "thinking of you" notes, with flowers or food, or by helping with cleaning, child care, or other chores or errands.

Often, it isn't necessary to "know what to say" — only to be there. Your friend may need you only to listen — which is actively giving to another — to take a hand in silent sympathy.

Above all, don't worry if you "never know what to say." The good that friends can do in trying to comfort mourners alcontinued on page 11

A New Age of Magazines

Browsing through my favorite bookstore recently, I concluded there's not a thing we eat, or a way we amuse, divert, or recreate ourselves, that isn't probed, examined, or dissected by a specialty magazine. Folks, it doesn't matter where your interests lie, or how unusual they may be, there's a magazine out there just for you.

Somewhere (probably in Magazines Now), I read that only 20% of these specialty magazines survive four years. So, publishers are really bucking some industrial-sized odds, here, but the potential down-the-line profits must be enormous — 'cause they sure keep on trying!

You know the type of magazines I'm talking about, I'm sure. If you're a runner or jogger, or even think you are, there's Runners World, among a host of others, for you to run out and buy. Running a bit too much? No problem — walk five or six miles to the bookstore and stroll away with Walking magazine. If knowing how your day/month/year (pick one) will turn out is your cup of tea leaves, Horoscope will leave you starry-eyed.

Then, there's Cat Fancy for those who, well, fancy cats! I've plopped down an occasional dollar or two for a magazine called The Writer. I know of nothing titled for readers (sounds strange), except, of course, The Weekly Reader, an all-time grade-school goodie. (I used to love Tuesday afternoons when Miss Allen — my first true love — passed out the Readers.)

New Age is a magazine targeted, I suppose, for folks who consider themselves new-agers. Now, I know of the Stone Age, the Ice Age, and even the Age of Aquarius, but I haven't the foggiest notion what New Age is about (although I like the music played on new-age radio stations, and I would, indeed, like a new age...25 would be nice). But, overall, I don't think New Age is for me. When Middle Age hits the bookstands, I'll give that a quick browse.

There were three magazines that were first editions, according to the bookstore clerk. One was Toenails Today, edited by the little Piggy who went into marketing. TT contained several interesting articles, as well as a thumbnail sketch of one Dr. Stanley Stubbed, generally recognized as podiatry's leading toenail expert. However, for me, folks, the most fascinating feature in TT was a contest to determine which of its readers has the largest toenail area on his or her left foot (square centimeters, clipped). Prizes ranged from a toeless pair of see-through motorcycle boots to 5x7" glossies of some of Dr. Stubbed's most spectacular cases of chronic, acute ingrowns ... some with underlying fungus!

Whiner's Weekly, edited by coffee mogul Linda Ellerbee, was another new entry. WW profiled a few more heroic whiners of our time, notably Morton Downey, Jr., Andy Rooney, my kids, and my sister and her dog. One article gave tips on what to do if you're whining and no one is listening. A suggestion here was to make a tape recording of your whines, and then play them back during a more receptive time. Another tip was to slowly stalk the disinterested individual and suddenly jump on his or her toenails, yelling, "LISTEN, CHUMP!" Sounds like that might work.

Rounding out these first-time magazine offerings was Beautiful Farming People. I didn't get too far into that one, as the centerfold featured a tuxedoed farmer (no stubble, even) and his elegantly attired wife (country-blue cocktail dress, single strand of pearls), lovingly posed on their freshly scrubbed Massey-Ferguson tractor. The thought of these folks growing beans, carrots, peas, and such, for me to buy and eat, was a bit too much. Shelving BFP, I began searching for Creative Couch Potatoing.

Free Bytes

It sounds too good to be true. But it isn't.

The Romulus Community School District is looking for 60 people to take a free, intensive, 480-hour computer training program, which will be followed by a free, highly successful job placement service. "You cannot find a better training program anywhere," said Bill Murphy, Adult and Community Education Director.

The course covers keyboarding, DOS, word processing, spread sheets, and Lotus 1,2,3. The first class has begun, but students are still being accepted. Another class will begin September 11. Anyone interested should call the Adult Career Training Office now. The number is 941-0031.

Murphy said there is room for 60 people in the program for this session. Morning, afternoon, and evening classes are offered, and there are no income or residency requirements. The classes are for non-high school graduates of any age. GED holders and high school graduates under 20 years of age also qualify.

Some nearby colleges are giving credit for this program. Adult Education gives four credits toward a high school diploma.

"There are jobs out there if they'll just stick with it," Murphy concluded. "Seventy percent of those completing the program last year are working."

Wayne County Fair Coming!

Seniors Still "Blossoming"

by Mary E. Clark

The Annual Flower Contest was held at the Romulus Towers earlier this month, and it was the difficult task of Mayor Beverly McAnally's Judging Committee (whose three members were Steve Banko, Betsey Brown, and Daryl Jamieson) to select the winners.

When the votes were tallied, the Mayor presented awards to first-place winner Mae Stafford, second-place winner Alice Briggs, and third-place winners Margaret and Bert Gilbert. Honorable Mentions were received by Ethel Lamarr and Eleanor Brzezicki.

Congratulations to all!

Anyone with any compassion at all would find it easy, in some ways, to feel sorry for those residents who may be forced to leave. They are, after all, human — people who need someone and/or something to hang on to. What if they don't want to go? One man told me about being beaten by a gang, for no reason at all, at a home in Detroit, and other residents described various poor conditions in facilities where they had lived previously; as far as they're concerned, this home is just fine.

Yet there are several people who do not like the idea of the home being in their neighborhood, and they have voiced their objections at the Planning Commission meetings.

In all fairness, when I visited the home, it appeared to be very clean and well cared for. The Mayor and Councilmen Randy Gear and Ellis Pennington also felt it was a nice, comfortable place for the people who live there. The problem, however, is that, no matter how nice it is, it is still against the law to have more residents than the maximum number allowed by the City's permit.

Councilman Pennington said that there are approximately 25 to 30 of these homes in Romulus, and he feels that, if we let this situation go uncontested, we will have similar problems with the other homes in our city.

Since it is the duty of a mayor to administer and enforce the law, Mayor McAnally has told residents that she will do whatever the law dictates. She also said that she would like to know how many other cities have these types of homes, and how many the State says they must have. (A city has absolutely no say in whether or not the State approves a home of this nature; it can only control the number who may occupy it.)

The picture accompanying this article will give you some idea of what the home looks like on the inside, as well as a look at the people who live there. I, personally, had only two problems with the place: there are as many as four people in a room (although the rooms are plenty large enough to house four comfortably), and I feel that the bath facilities are not adequate for the number of people.

All people — even those with poor health, limited intellectual capacity, or mental instability — must have a place to live. The problem, however, is that no one seems to want such people in their neighborhood.

Sometimes you wonder if the laws are fair for everyone. Nevertheless, the laws are the laws, and they must be obeyed.

Law Mandates Correctional Facility Buffer Zones

A House bill recently signed into law will require a 300-foot "buffer zone" between State prison grounds and neighboring residences. The legislation also requires new prison construction plans to include a landscaped buffer, designed to block prison sights and sounds.

Bills Would Register Appliance Dealers

Proposed legislation in the House would establish a State-wide registration system for individuals and businesses that repair major home appliances. Backers of the bill say similar registration systems in other states helped eliminate appliance repair businesses that overcharge customers or fail to complete necessary work. The bill would authorize the State to revoke the registration of businesses that continued any fraudulent practices.

House Bills Target Auto Theft

A bill package now before a House committee proposes increased penalties for auto theft in Michigan — up to five years in jail, a fine of up to $10,000, or both. The bills also would revoke the State business license of auto repair shop owners and mechanics who participate in auto theft operations.

Life Jackets Allowed for Handicapped Swimmers

Under a new State law, handicapped persons cannot be prevented from using a life jacket or other approved flotation device in a public swimming pool. The legislation, which was sparked by the death of a child with epilepsy who was not allowed to wear a life jacket and drowned during a seizure, requires the swimmer to have a physician's statement that the life-saving device is necessary.

Punishments Proposed for Landlords of Drug Dealers

Under a bill now in the House, landlords who knowingly rent property to be used in illegal drug trafficking would face up to 180 days in jail and up to $5,000 in fines.

Run to Raise Money for Homeless Children

House members and the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) are promoting the "Run 4 Shelter/Walk 2 Help," a fund-raising event for the Homeless Children's Fund which is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, August 12, in Lansing. Participants will pay an entry fee for either a four-mile run or a two-mile walk. Prizes will be awarded, and all pre-registered participants will receive a T-shirt. Proceeds from the event will be used for day care, books, games, medical care, and other services for children in homeless shelters. Entry forms and further information are available from MSHDA - call (517) 373-8370.

House Bill Would Strengthen Video Rental Privacy Protections

A new State law makes it a misdemeanor for retailers to release the name of, or other personal information about, a person renting, buying, or borrowing videos or other materials without the written consent of the customer. A bill recently passed by the House would expand this consumer privacy law, mandating that the store owners could be fined up to $10,000 and that the aggrieved customer also could collect up to $5,000 in damages.

Bible School

by Rev. J.D. Landis

It's the good ol' summertime, and that means lots of swimming, picnicing, and play activities for most kids; but, with no school, it also can mean some days of boredom. Well, the Community United Methodist Church has the perfect answer — a Vacation Bible School that will meet from Monday, July 31, through Friday, August 4. The theme of the program is "Jesus in Space and Time," and it will include supervised crafts, games, singing, recreation, and a Bible Discovery time. The morning sessions begin at 9 a.m. and last until

Classes will be held for all children and youth. There is no cost to register, but free-will offerings will be taken daily. Prizes will be given out for special achievements. On Thursday night, at 7 p.m., there will be a program for all children and their families, which will include a ventriloquy act featuring "Joel and Archie."

Rides will be available for those who do not have transportation. For registration or information, please call the Church office (941-0736) between the times of 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday. All youth and children are invited.

At this writing, the Parks officer who was involved in the accident is believed to be in Annapolis Hospital with an undetermined injury.

Once again, the Romulus Police Department displayed its ability to apprehend lawbreakers, and its officers should be commended and applauded for their efforts. Since Police Chief Dansby took his post, the talents of our young department seem to be coming to the front of the picture.
